

Features | Reportage | Arts | Reviews | Plus David Mitchell and 7-day TV listings

The Observer

THE NEW REVIEW

SUNDAY 14 NOVEMBER 2010

Books

AUDIO BOOK

About Truth, Freedom and Love

Anton Chekhov. Read by Max Bollinger

INTERACTIVE.EU.COM £14, 90MINS UNABRIDGED

Chekhov's stories are about nothing and everything. This trilogy has the timeless simplicity of what Nabokov called Chekhov's "dove-grey world": the lives of ordinary people set in the extraordinary expanse of Russia's landscape and altering skies. But in the unrequited longings of the characters' souls, in their quiet tragedies and in their questioning of truth, freedom, love and happiness, the stories are lifted to another plane. Russian-born Max Bollinger, whose passion for Chekhov is palpable, is the perfect reader. Rachel Redford

14.11.10 | THE NEW REVIEW 41

www.observer.co.uk
Sunday 14 November 2010
£2.00

The Observer